Remembering details

After visiting the Katonah Museum of Art reflect on all the art you have seen. Pick a favorite work of art that you saw at the Museum. Describe the artwork in detail, explaining it so someone who never saw the piece could draw it.

TRANSFORMING MAPS

Most people think that maps are good for telling us how to get where we want to go. But, could maps be good for other things? Why not make a map into a boat? Cut out the map below and use the instructions to fold it.

1. Fold paper into triangle shape.
2. Fold the side points up to meet the top point to make creases, then fold back in place.
3. Fold the top point to the bottom using the creases as a guide.
4. Fold the side points up to the top.
5. Turn over and fold the top point down.
6. Turn it over again and fold the bottom point to meet the top of the boat.
7. Turn over and admire your boat.

What kind of map does a boat need?
Post Visit Activity – From Here to There

Map a story in the spaces below. Illustrate and write a story that takes you from “here” to “there.” It could reference locations, such as “from home to school,” or emotional changes as in “from happy to sad,” or transformations such as “from dry to wet.” Use your imagination to describe the “to” section – how did this change happen?
