

Create a Market Woman

Visit the Katonah Museum of Art to discover how artists use clay in amazing ways. The Learning Center is privileged to present the story of a Mexican folk artist whose family is part of a long tradition of clay artisans. Josefina Aguilar creates “muñecas,” human figures shown in different activities, places, and costumes. Josefina is influenced by what she sees in the world around her. Use the outline to draw or paint your own market woman. Think about what you want her to be selling. Add those items to her hat and have her hold more of them in her hands. You can give her a name too.

My market woman muñeca is selling: _____
