

Our Visit to the Katonah Museum of Art

Photography courtesy of Margaret Fox

We are going to the Katonah Museum of Art, also known as the KMA. We will enter from the parking lot through the front door.

As we enter the Atrium, we will see the reception desk. A Guest Services Associate (GSA) will greet us and check us in. If the Museum feels overwhelming, a GSA staff member can help us find headphones, fidget tools, books, or a quiet place.

The all-gender accessible bathrooms are to the right and left of us.

Past the Atrium is the Marilyn M. Simpson Sculpture Garden. It is a place to rest or move around. If we bring a snack, we can eat it out there. The tall trees are called Norway Spruce.

The current exhibition at the KMA is Shen Wei: *STILL/MOVING. We can't touch the artwork, but we can look at it!

We will need to stay a safe distance from the artwork and move carefully through the galleries. The GSA staff will also be guarding the room to help protect the art.

In The Pollack Family Learning Center, we will see Marks in Motion, an installation for families about the connections between dance and visual art.

The Learning Center is our space to sit and talk, read, and make art. When we enter the room, the plastic bins below the counter to the left have lots of fun materials for us to use.

Check out the water painting and mark-making stations too!

Photography courtesy of Jason Mandella

Thank you for visiting the KMA today!

Museum Rules

Look, don't touch the art

Speak quietly

Walk, don't run

Be careful, stay 3 feet from the art