

ARTS+

Katonah Museum of Art Offers a Welcome Introduction to a Notable Surrealist Painter, Leonora Carrington

If Surrealist painting tends toward slick sensationalism (Salvador Dalí) or drab illustration (Rene Magritte), Carrington brought scruffy means and a diffuse light to her storybook miniaturism.

Leonora Carrington, 'Rabinos (the Rabbis),' (1960). © Leonora Carrington, Arts Rights Society, New York

MARIO NAVES

Aug. 22, 2025
02:16 PM ET

Gift this article

Have an account? Log In

To continue reading, please select:

LIMITED ACCESS

Enter your email to read for FREE

✓

Get 1 FREE article

Continue with or

Email address

Continue

UNLIMITED ACCESS

Join the Sun for a PENNY A DAY

$0.01/day for 60 days

Cancel anytime

✓

100% ad free experience

✓

Unlimited article and commenting access

Full annual dues ($120) billed after 60 days

Start My Trial

View all membership options

By continuing you agree to our Privacy Policy and Terms of Service.

ADVERTISEMENT

